Justien Senoa is a young Northern Tutchone artist, born December 1985 in Whitehorse, Yukon.

She has enjoyed drawing and painting since she was a child, and showed talent in her high school art classes.

In spring 2007 she began studying with the Sundog Retreat Carving Our Path program, under the instruction of Tlingit artist Calvin Morberg, and Tahltan artist Vernon Asp.

Justien is building on her natural talent to develop the skills she needs for a career as an artist, and she hopes to attend art college in the next few years.

As she learns more about northwest native art, she reflects on how amazing it is that she is able to do the same craft that her ancestors have been doing for hundreds of years.

She is able to express herself through her art, which is very important to her as she explores her own past and charts her own future.
